

I feel this requested action should be denied. simply holding an amateur license for a number of years should not entitle them to an upgrade. Anyone wishing to upgrade to a higher class license is free to do so by studying and passing an FCC exam. Approving this change will only further "dumb down" the amateur service, and in the end we will have nothing more than another "CB" type of service.